

Jason Keith Fernandes will present a paper entitled 'The Untouchable Citizen' on the June 6, 2017, at St. Anthony's College at the University of Oxford. Drawing from his doctoral research, the paper will suggest that through the linguistic choices made by the government, of Goa around the issue of the official language of the state it is not merely caste that is at the centre of citizenship experiences but untouchability itself. The paper will be presented at 2 pm in the Fellows' Dining Room at St. Anthony's College.

Image credit: Memórias da

Índia Portuguesa

The lecture will be a part of the South Asia Seminar Series, more information can be found here.

Share this...

